No date yet for Rex Bathurst decision

Updated December 05, 2011 13:48:00

Regional Express (Rex) says there is no firm date on when a decision will be made about the future of its Bathurst to Sydney air service.

In June, the airline said it would monitor demand on the route, which it says may not be sustainable due to falling passenger numbers.

A company spokeswoman says it continues to monitor the route but has not decided when it will determine its future.

She says the company is continuing to consult with the Bathurst Regional Council.
